BREVITIES

Bar silver 100.

Room and board at reasonable rates. See 50-cent column.

Mrs. M. E. Burton has removed to the Arcade Hotel. See 50-cent column.

Truckee Lodge, No. 14, I. O. O. F., will hold its regular meeting this evening.

Miss Kate Fellows of the Carson Mint arrived last night on a visit to friends.

John Sparks, the cattleman, has returned from an extended tour through Colorado, Utah and Idaho.

About 25 bars of bullion arrived by the V. & T. train last night for shipment to San Francisco.

Mr. and Mrs. Theodore Winters arrived from their home last night. Mr. Winters leaves for the East to-day.

E. W. Hopkins of the Boca Mill Company has just completed a fine Summer residence at Prosser Creek.

J. M. McCormack, when asked last evening the cause of his joy, said he is the father of a bouncing baby boy.

R. S. Osburn has broken ground on Fifth street for the foundation of a fine residence hich he intends to build.

Sampling works are being erected at Carlin by the Chamberlain company of Denver. The works will have a capacity of 50 tons per day.

The Record proudly boasts that Pioche is not a dead town, and substantiates the assertion by the statement that four licensed poker games are running in the town.

Sergeant Barwick of the Signal Service, stationed at Sacramento, has received orders to proceed to Carson and Winnemucca to inspect the signal offices at those places.

A counterfeiter succeeded in flooding Yreka, California, with counterfeit dollars, which are said to be a very clumsy imitation of the genuine coin. He was arrested and lodged in jail.

A. M. Beebe of the firm of Beebe & Thomas, returned yesterday from Prosser Creek, where he has been doing the plumbing on the new residence of E. W. Hopkins of the Boca Mill Co.

The Austin Advocate says the Big Creek antimony mine has over 100 tons of ore ready for shipment, but the price of antimony is so low that the mine may be closed till the price of its product raises.

The Fourth of July Finance Committee will visit business houses to-day and to-morrow. The patriotic citizens of Reno are determined to celebrate the anniversary of the Natal day of the Republic, and they want a little financial aid.

E. E. Winfrey arrived yesterday from Winnemucca, where he has been Principal of the public schools for two terms, and is engaged for a third term. He is a very successful teacher and the graduates of his school are among the best educated in the State.

The annual clean-up of the Carson Mint commenced yesterday. It is customary to make an inspection of the Mint and report its operations at the end of each fiscal year and an official of the Treasury Department will arrive about the end of this week for the purpose.

The Record says twenty-five teams, loaded with the first consignment of 400 tons of rails for use in the construction of the Pioche and Jackrabbit railroad, left Milford on the 13th inst. for Pioche. These rails are from the old track of the Denver & Rio Grande road.

A Pioche tailor, named Edward Cummings, while under the influence of liquor, brutally beat his wife, knocking her down and jumping upon her. Her screams attracted a crowd, who handled him so roughly that a jury concluded he had been punished enough and acquitted him.

A Novel Wager.

The Enterprise says: James G. Fair has been appealed to by the University cadets at Reno to help them build a gymnasium and drill hall, as the State is not in a condition to do so.

Yesterday a well-known Comstocker bet another $20 against $5 that the ex-Senator from this State would respond with a donation well up in the thousands, and he says he has more money to put up on it.

Good Music.

Fredrick, Barlow & Peck have been engaged by the Fourth of July Committee to furnish music for the exercises on that day. The boys will at once go to work to prepare an elaborate programme of new music for the street and dance at night.

Dr. Thomson's Lecture.

The lecture on "The American Sabbath" by Dr. Edward Thomson will be delivered at the M. E. Church on Thursday evening next, and not at the Congregational Church as previously announced.

"THE TWELVE TEMPTATIONS."

A Brilliant Spectacular Play, Magnificent Scenery and Plenty of Fun.

The Enterprise says of the "Twelve Temptations" which appeared in Virginia City night before last, and which will appear at McKissick's to-night:

The worst temptation in the "Twelve Temptations" is that it moves a truly pious man to neglect prayer meeting to see the play if he knows what it is like. It opens with some familiar antics of the old pantomimes, interrupted by an occasional spurt of light dialogue, but soon exhibits its merits as a spectacular drama and its facilities as a medium for specialties. The story of the search for the maiden imprisoned by a jealous spirit, the rivalry of good and bad immortals, is not worth telling, but nobody cares for the story.

The ballet is beautifully arranged. Graceful figures and artful blending of colors make the effect beautiful and each appearance is a novelty. One peculiar dance, a number of little girls "riding on grandpa's shoulders," though not so pleasant to the eye is very taking from the novelty; the others are arranged for beauty and are thoroughly successful.

Three acrobats do some excellent work, though not quite equal to a group of seven that was here some weeks ago. There is a ladder act in which the balancing is almost as good as that of the Japanese troupes. It is done, however, by a young lady of rather prepossessing appearance.

Probably the best part of the performance was an amazing dance by an astounding frog. There were several pseudo animal characters introduced at different stages, all well enough in their way, but the remarkable contortions of Dalhaeur, as the dancing frog, made all the familiar imitations seem commonplace. He does not exactly turn himself inside out, but he gets wrong side in front and upside down at the same time and dances with his legs knotted around his neck. Nobody expected him to crawl down his own throat as it was not on the programme, but nobody would have been much surprised if he had. It might make him sick at the stomach, of course, but it would certainly be an immense attraction if he would swallow himself.

A Farewell Reception to Miss Quaiffe.

There was a pleasant gathering yesterday afternoon at the residence of Mrs. D. B. Boyd, the President of the W. C. T. U. of Reno, for the purpose of taking leave of Miss Quaiffe, who is a member of that organization. About forty ladies were present. After a formal opening of the meeting by prayer and singing, Mrs. Jones, on behalf of the Union, presented Miss Quaiffe with a handsome silk umbrella with a silver handle suitably inscribed. Mrs. Jones spoke as follows:

"Miss Quaiffe; the President of our Union has requested me to say a few words, and I do so with pleasure, though mingled with sadness at the thought that this is our last meeting with you. When you leave Reno your memory here will be preserved by the many acts of helpful service you have rendered. You might say in the words of the poet: 'Let me steal away, gently and lovingly, only remembered by what I have done.' But we would also be remembered by you, and as you are going to a strange place where there will be nothing to remind you of us, we have agreed to ask you to remember us at certain seasons. You know how strong the law of association is; how a tune or a poem will call up the memory of an absent friend. Therefore, as the W. C. T. U. is particularly fond of cold water, and plenty of it, it seems appropriate to ask you to remember us when it rains. We ask you to accept this umbrella as a token of our regard."

Miss Quaiffe received the present and thanked the Union, saying that she would remember them not only in storm, but in sunshine.

After some time passed in social intercourse Mrs. Boyd invited the ladies into the dining room, where on two long tables beautifully decorated with flowers, a variety of elegant refreshments were served.

Death of Mrs. F. B. Glenn.

News reached here yesterday of the death of Mrs. Dita Glenn which occurred at Willows, California. Deceased was the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Bradley. She had been ill for some weeks, but improved somewhat a week ago, and her mother, who had been attending her, returned home. Monday she was informed by telegraph that Mrs. Glenn was worse and she left immediately for Willows, but arrived too late to see her daughter alive. Mr. Bradley arrived yesterday from Elko county and left last night for Willows. The sympathy of the community is extended to the bereaved relatives.

Reno to Celebrate.

The Committee of Arrangements have completed all preliminary details for a good celebration on the Fourth of July. New and interesting novelties will be introduced, and a number of liberal cash prizes will be offered. Let every one take a hand to make it a jolly and entertaining day for all and especially the little folk. In another column will be found a list of all the events to take place.

A College Professor Absconds.

Special to the Journal.

KANSAS CITY, June 23.—A special from Springfield, Mo., says: The sudden resignation of Professor Amandon of Drury College was a surprise to the public, although he was known to have been unpopular with the students. Greater surprise came to light when it was discovered he had absconded after securing endorsements for about $1,300 by his fellow Professors.

SHIPS PULL UP CABLES.

QUEER FISHING WITH PROPELLER SCREWS OF BIG BOATS.

An Ocean Steamship Carries a Piece of Submarine Cable from New York to Liverpool and Back—Experience of a Ship That Ran Into the Mud.

Submarine cables laid in shallow waters are often exposed to greater risks and rougher treatment than the great ocean cables, which sometimes cost their owners a small fortune in repairs. Not long ago an ocean going steamship, in leaving her dock at Jersey City, plowed up the soft bottom with her powerful propeller, and secured a costly and valuable catch in the shape of about a dozen submarine cables, which enmeshed themselves in the blades of the propeller so effectively that all the cables were torn asunder, and the ship had to go into dry dock to clear her screw of the garlands of iron, hemp and Kerite with which it had become embellished—not to say embarrassed.

The learned judge who presided over the argument as to whether the telegraph company, which owned the cables, or the steamship company, which owned the inquisitive vessel, was the aggrieved party, decided in favor of the latter, holding that a harbor is to be kept free for navigation, and that a steamer is entitled to plow through mud as well as water, cables or no cables. If the cables were thought to be secure because they were lodged in two feet of silt, why, so much the worse for the cables, or rather for their owners.

According to the learned judge, ocean steamers possess the right of way through the silt, even down to hard rock, and the waters of a harbor for purposes of navigation have no "bottom." This is cold comfort for owners of submarine cables in harbors, but by way of adding insult to injury the very practical suggestion was made that cables might be laid in a species of submarine trench, and thus be kept out of harm's way when ocean steamers (or others) find it necessary to "take the ground."

TUGBOAT AND CABLE.

It is quite conceivable that the powerful machinery of an ocean steamer should make light work of gathering up and rending into fragments a dozen or so of submarine cables, but that a river tug should take to the same game and twist some hundred feet or so of heavily armored seven conductor cable into a bunch of Gordian knots is a little too much. The cable is the property of the American Telephone and Telegraph company, and serves to connect the pole line across Staten Island with that running through New Jersey, the cable crossing the Kills between Linoleumville and Carteret.

The tug caught up the cable in the most approved manner, according to the laws of harbor navigation, snatched it from its quiet resting place in the silt, and a stern battle between the pugnacious propeller and the inoffensive and defenseless (though armored) cable ensued. Needless to say, the propeller was victorious. The iron armor resisted vigorously, but it was never intended to withstand the attack of a river tug's propeller, so, after a stout resistance, accompanied by endless writhings and contortions, it succumbed.

The sea serpent itself could not have made a better fight. If the cable was vanquished, its enemy was also, at least for a time, placed hors de combat, for, so closely were propeller and cable interlocked in their deadly feud that the tug had to be brought to New York and put in dry dock in order to separate them. The snarl contains about one hundred feet of cable, and bears strong evidence as to good construction.

Few would believe that a cable could resist long enough to be twisted up into such hideous shapes instead of breaking almost at once. The cable, which is a seven conductor, Kerite make, has been down for about five years, and was found to be in perfect condition when repairs were made. Indeed, the snarl testifies to that.

SOME CABLE STORIES.

Not long ago Frank Stockton contributed to one of the magazines a nonsensical story, in which a startling incident was narrated. By a stroke of lightning a steamer had been converted into an immense magnet, and had attracted to itself a submarine cable, which held it fast until the cable ship came to the rescue. This flight of fancy is not altogether without excuse.

There is a story of an ocean steamship catching up a piece of cable in the North river, and towing it all the way from New York to Liverpool and back without discovering to what mysterious cause the strange reduction of speed on the round trip could be attributed.

There is yet another story of a sound boat which fouled a submarine cable in New York waters and towed a goodly length of it to New Haven. There the piece of cable was cleared away, coiled down on the dock, and subsequently sold by the steamship company to another corporation whose business it is to maintain electrical communication between places. That corporation put the cable into service, and (so the story goes) is using it at the present time.—Herbert L. Webb in Electrical Engineer.

To Preserve Shoe Leather.

A German chemist has invented a preparation which, it is claimed, when applied to the soles of shoes, has the effect of increasing their wearing capacity from five to ten times, besides making them waterproof. The preparation is applied after the shoes are finished and the soles are buffed. The right to use it has been sold to the Bavarian government for the army. The inventor says it has been tested in the German army satisfactorily.—Exchange.

An Every Morning Incident.

Mr. Suburb (slowly waking up and rubbing his eyes)—What time is it?

Mrs. Suburb (looking at watch)—It's three minutes of train time.

Mr. Suburb (springing out of bed)—Tell Mary to hurry up the breakfast.—New York Weekly.
